Synthetic Food Key To Population Growth

The expectancy that the world's population will double in more than six billion people in about 40 years, and the method by which they can be adequately fed, is the gigantic problem facing world leaders and scientists. Among them is William D. Gray, Southern Illinois University professor of botany, who believes the world food problem is here now and not something in the future.

Prof. Gray's work, which has attracted international attention, has led to a process for producing a protein-rich food supplement from various forms of waste plant materials. Through further study, he hopes to prove the supplement can be produced economically on a massive scale. A tasteless, odorless and colorless substance, Prof. Gray's product could be produced as a dry powder, in liquid form, or as flakes. Although not so optimistic to believe it will be accepted as an immediate dietary supplement for the world's hungry millions, Gray does believe it will be accepted as a high-protein food for cattle. "By confining cattle and using the pasture land to grow carbohydrates and converting these to protein, we could produce much more meat per acre," he explains.

Unless the organic chemical can accomplish a total synthesis of protein, Gray says, man must continue to exploit other organisms as a protein source. It is along these lines he is working. With his process, carbohydrates, of which there is no shortage, can be used to produce the critically needed protein through fungal synthesis. Simply stated, Prof. Gray is using a fungus to produce protein.

Gray says. A native of Jeffersonville, Ind., who holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania, Gray came to SIU this year after 17 years on the faculty of the University of Illinois. Population regulation is the ultimate solution to the world's population pressures, Gray believes. "But until this is done, a stop-gap measure would be to provide an adequate protein diet for all the world's people," he says.

Millions of people among the present population, Prof. Gray explains, live in areas where a protein-deficient diet leaves them "hungry" even after they have eaten. "If we had to be concerned with calories alone," he says, "no great problem would exist, as the needs of three billion people could be met with potatoes produced on 25% of the earth's arable land."

An adequate diet requires about 52 pounds of protein a year, he explains, and a continued lack of protein results in marked physical symptoms. As an example, he cites that more than 80% of the African people are estimated to be protein deficient. Unless the organic chemical can accomplish a total synthesis of protein, Gray says, man must continue to exploit other organisms as a protein source. It is along these lines he is working.

to grow a protein-rich fungus which can be used as a food. A pound of the fungus, 20 to 38 per cent protein, could be produced with two pounds of sugar or less. Corn, potatoes, waste molasses from sugar beets and cane, citrus wastes and many other food materials have been used in the process.

Gray says even a small plant utilizing equipment already in industrial use could produce about half-a-million pounds of protein annually through the fungus conversion process. The next step in his research plan is a pilot plant to demonstrate the quantity production of the protein food from various materials economically available.

While taking a victim of an asthma attack to St. Elizabeth Hospital at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, a car driven by John E. Mosley, 428 Weaver street, West Madison, went through a red light at 20th street and Madison avenue and struck a taxicab driven by Frank Anderson, 2716 Harding avenue. The left front of Mosley's car and the left side of the cab were damaged.

Damaged in Venice

Two autos were damaged at 12:30 a.m. today in a collision at Market and 36th streets. The cars, driven by Robert Kingbury of 401 Weaver street, Venice, and Richard Smith East St. Louis, were both headed west on Market street. Police said Smith made the stop at 36th street and Kingbury's car collided with the rear of his machine.

MORE ABOUT Campus Title

Residents along with 80 from the Collinsville area touched off "one of the largest demonstrations ever seen in this vicinity."

It obviously was the major news of that particular day, but the birth of a Kronsheim heir also has proven to be an event of great consequence, as far as the school system is concerned.

Differing Interpretations Where do the will in its apparent reference to him has been subject to two legal interpretations, both centering on the 10th and 11th articles of the 16-section document. It is on these interpretations, and the land condemnation procedures followed, that the campus ownership question hinges.

Where do the cow and gold watch fit in with the mammoth Junior high school (35 acres, 45 acres) and the 100-acre tract? The will drawn up by Henry Fehling and witnessed by W. J. Frieda, Fred Vorwald and Thomas Stalling bequeaths his watch to William F. Fehling. The cow, along with "all of my household furniture, books, works of art, jewelry, and other personal and family effects," is to be inherited by the grandson, Lester.

Article 10 of the will provides for the trustees to pay Fehling, the profits and income from 7.5-acre tract in writing dated April 4, 1903. Said daughters are to receive nothing further from the estate as my heirs, and I mention them here simply to show that I have not overlooked them.

The other daughter and the son jointly were given two real estate lots in Venice township and a cemetery lot in Nameoki. The remainder of his estate, including real and personal and mixed property, was bequeathed to "my executors and trustees hereinafter named, and to their heirs and assigns forever" to be held in trust, some on behalf of William and some on behalf of Frieda.

Trustees designated were Mrs. Fehling, Mrs. Lueders and Mrs. Lueders' husband. They were destined to be succeeded as trustees Dec. 15, 1904, by William John Steele, local realtor, and his wife, Mrs. Ivy K. Steele. The Steele's duties pertain only to the Kronsheim portion, William Fehling having passed away in 1907, leaving his wife and her son.

Henry Fehling directed that the trustees "let or lease the said real estate and keep the improvements thereon in good repair." He added that "the payment of taxes, repairs, and improvements and other necessary expenses, the balance should be paid out of the profits and income of the said real estate as hereinafter more particularly set forth."

"In no case," he said, "shall this will be construed so as to authorize or empower the executors and trustees to sell or encumber said real estate."

The remainder of the personal or mixed estate "willed to my said executors and trustees shall be loaned and secured by mortgage on real estate or invested in bonds or in such other first-class securities as my executors and trustees shall deem best, such investments to be made so as to yield a regular interest and income which shall be paid out, as specified."

It was provided that profits and income received by the trustees from several tracts of land designated in other portions of the will, plus profits and interest from half of his personal or mixed estate, were to be paid to his son annually during the son's lifetime; afterward, the real estate and half the personal estate were to be inherited by the grandson, Lester.

LA DON BIASON HONORED ON SIXTH BIRTHDAY

The sixth birthday of La Don Biason was observed Saturday afternoon with a party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Smith, 33 Cambridge drive.

Pink and white were the colors used in the decorating theme. Oriental lanterns were strung around the room and miniature pink baskets filled with candies were used as favors.

Refreshments were served by the hosts to Elaine Bauer, Connie Koesterer, Lisa Allen, Gina Biason, Joyce Rieger, Debbie Blevins, Sharon Koesterer, Diane Biason and Mrs. Sharon Santee. Mrs. Santee, who is the mother of La Don, was assisted by the party.

FOR CAMPOUT Cadette Troop 344 and 121 combined for a two-day campout last week at Camp Lakota in Eden Caydon. The girls returned home Wednesday.

While there, the scouts enjoyed games, hikes, a gift exchange and making of homemade ice cream. They also decorated a small tree in a holiday mood.

Those attending from Troop 344 were Christine Bishop, Janet Bono, Cheryl Brinkmeyer, Cheryl Graham, Christy Koglin, Jamie Louie, Donna Morris, Janet Ronk, Connie Rutter, Sara Slater, Lanette Squires, Lynette Ward and their leader, Mrs. Arlene Brinkmeyer.

Members of Troop 121 were Janice Aldridge, Brenda Bennett, Linda Edgington, Sharon Johnson and their leader, Mrs. Arlene Brinkmeyer.

Eights and ninth grade students from over half the community. No estimate of the value of the campus has been announced, but it is worth more, now that it is surrounded by residential and commercial property, than in 1925, when it was isolated farmland. The amount paid then was $58,830.

Lifetime Specified The trustees were to remain in charge throughout the lifetime of the son and daughter. For this reason, the trust still is in effect in 1965, governing the property, both real and personal, from which income goes to Mrs. Kronsheim.

No mention is made of the junior high school campus, which was still a half-century away from becoming a reality when the will was drawn up. But it is a part of the land willed to the trustees to benefit Mrs. Kronsheim.

The trustees were barred from selling it, but the condemnation power granted to school districts through the state government was used to acquire it for school purposes in 1953.

Gain in Land Value If the 1963 and 1964 rulings are upheld, not only the campus, but the school on it technically would become the property of Harold Kronsheim. It was indicated during the hearing that financial compensation will be sought only on the land.

The school district has the power to condemn a second time, but the buildings and strategically-located site are worth a considerable sum of money; well over $1 million has been spent to construct the educational facilities, which serve seventh, eighth and ninth grades.

He said new editions of tax guides that are now available are "Your Federal Income Tax," selling for 50 cents; "Tax Guide for Small Business," selling for 50 cents; "Depreciation Guidelines," selling for 20 cents; "Farmers Tax Guide," which is free, and others relating to specific tax cases. Peace Corps Placement Tests To be Given on Saturday Placement tests for Peace Corps applicants will be given at 8:30 a.m. Saturday in Room 414, Federal Building, 730 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis. The location is one of 800 civil service testing centers where the test will be administered on the same day.

Applicants should take with them a completed questionnaire unless one has already been filed in Washington. The forms are available at most post offices, from Peace Corps liaison in college placement offices, or they can be obtained by writing the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C.

Conference Duels Open 1965 Cage Schedule

Granite City is Host to Alton; Road Games for Madison, Venice

Granite City, Madison and Venice open their 1965 basketball play with conference games tomorrow night.

The high school teams begin the new year with a combined record of 16 wins, 13 losses. Venice, idle over the holidays, stands 8-1 with the last seven victories in succession. Madison, winning two straight for the first time in the East St. Louis tournament, is 3-5. Granite City, after splitting four games at the Pontiac tourney, is 3-7.

Granite City's Warriors will be home to the Alton Redbirds (3-6) for a Southwestern Conference game tomorrow night. The Madison Trojans visit the high-flying Highland Bulldogs (12-1) in the Midwestern Conference and Venice's Red Devils call on the Breese Cardinals (7-3) in the Madison-Clinton-Nacoupin Conference.

All three local squads have won tournament trophies this season. Venice won the MCM and Highland St. Paul tournaments. Madison finished second at O'Fallon and won the consolation bracket at East St. Louis, and Granite City was fourth at Pontiac.

Focus on Conferences
Except for Granite City's entry in next week's Dupu Invitational meet, the local squads are through with regular season tournaments and will concentrate on their conference races.

Venice, 1-0 in the MCM Conference, is favored to repeat as champion although Breese, Bunker Hill and Livingston loom as strong contenders.

By Press-Record Staff Photographer
FINE PERFORMANCE IN THE Pontiac tourney, despite an ankle sprain, earned Granite City's Vince Debevo a standing ovation last week.

Those who have gone undefeated are 95-pounder Bill Fuchs (11-0), 120-pounder Rich Grizzard (14-0-1) and 112-pounder Steve Cavanaugh (13-0-1). Fuchs, who had been wrestling at 127, competed at 120 in the holiday tourney.

All four, of course, won individual championships in the tournament as the Warriors won with a record 135 points. Other champs were heavyweight John Evenden, who now has a 14-1 record, 180-pounder Gary Forshaw, 12-2, and 136-pounder Jim "Buddy" Valicoff, 12-2-1.

Breese Pacing GCHS
Vince Debevo, the Warriors' 5-8 ball-handler and ball-hawk, leads the team in scoring with a 12.7 average in the 10 games. Next are Joe Grobowski (9.7), Larry Ripka (9.2), Elmer Warham (7.4) and Terry Moore (7.0).

The Warriors, largely inexperienced at the start of the season, showed great improvement at Pontiac, where they tied No. 1-ranked Pontiac for most of their semifinal game before bowing.

Alton, eliminated in the quarterfinals at the Carbondale tourney, is paced by 6-3½ Larry Jeffries with a 20.1 average in nine games. The Redbirds' victories have been over East St. Louis, St. Louis CBC and Evansville.

Madison's Trojans, headed by Paul Lusk (21.2) and Dale Turner (18.9), run into a Highland team that has won 12 straight games since losing its opener to Edwardsville. Leading the Bulldogs, who have gone over the 100-point mark twice, is 6-6 Roger Manwaring with a 22.3 average.

Perry Dillon (21.7), Rich Jackson (17.7) and Rich Essington (13.4) are the high scorers for Venice's successful Devils. Breese's ace is 5-10 Danny Haug, an all-conference choice as a sophomore last season.

Four Matmen Are Unbeaten This Season

Four varsity wrestlers at Granite City high school enter 1965 undefeated and another, standing in, has apparently seen his last action for the Warriors.

Tom Miosfsky, a senior and regular at 145 pounds, suffered a broken left arm during the Granite City holiday tournament last week and is out for the season. Before the injury, Miosfsky had posted a record of seven wins, three losses and two draws.

Coach Bill "Red" Schmitt expects to drop Mike Andria, who has been wrestling at 245 in place of injured Mike Moulte, to the 145 slot. Actually, Andria's normal weight class is 125.

Those who have gone undefeated are 95-pounder Bill Fuchs (11-0), 120-pounder Rich Grizzard (14-0-1) and 112-pounder Steve Cavanaugh (13-0-1).

The Warriors resume action Friday afternoon at Western Military Academy, Alton, where Schmitt said, however, that reserves would be used against WMA to save the regulars for Saturday's quadrangular here.

Opposing teams will be Lockport, Carl Sandburg of Ireland Park and Pekin.

Carl Wortham Slated For Kiel Performance

Local fans will have a chance to see one of the Quad-Cities' finest small college basketball players and a top collegiate game to last tonight at Kiel Auditorium tonight.

Carl Wortham, Granite City's senior who last week went over the 2000-point mark in his career at Sanford-Brown Business College, will lead the Indians against the St. Louis University freshmen at 6:15. The St. Louis U. Bills will meet the Tulsa Hurricanes in a Missouri Valley Conference game in the feature at 8:30.

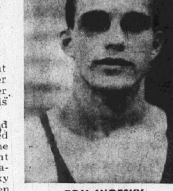

John Campbell, veteran Sanford-Brown coach, said a business trip to California will keep him from the Kiel contest—the first game he's had to miss in 16 years at Sanford.

IRS Sales Tax Chart For Income Tax Deduction

Quad-City taxpayers may use a state sales tax table as a guideline when filing their 1964 federal income tax returns, Jay G. Philpott, district director of Internal Revenue said the table is now available.

The table shows the average amount of sales tax paid by Illinois residents and may be used by taxpayers who itemize their federal income tax deductions.

For the first time since 1960 when the tables were originally issued there has been a general revision of the amounts, Philpott said. The latest tables are based on summary data showing the patterns of consumer expenditures developed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics from a 1960-61 study. Previous tables were based on a 1950 study.

Previously, tables were revised only to reflect changes in sales tax rates or the commodities state's laws.

The recent study shows that household operations, property taxes, medical care, personal care services, education, and insurance have, for the most part, comprised a larger part of the total consumer expenditures in 1960-61 than they did in 1950. These items are not usually subject to state sales taxes.

The new tables chart by state sales tax rates and the amount of sales tax paid on the purchase of various items, such as automobiles, purchased, thus providing a uniform treatment of this item for all states. Now taxpayers who purchase an automobile may add the sales taxes paid on the purchase to the amount shown in the sales taxes paid on the purchase of the item.

The result of the revisions, particularly the elimination of the allowance for autos, has reduced the amount shown on the sales tax tables. The new tables, however, are a more accurate measure of the average sales tax paid in the various states.

Internal Revenue reminds taxpayers that these tables are not intended to be used. They are furnished as a guide for the consumer.

for the first time. The tables were originally issued there has been a general revision of the tables. The tables are based on summary data showing the patterns of consumer expenditures in the United States. The Bureau of Labor Statistics from a 1960-61 study. Previous tables were based on a 1955 study.

Previously, tables were revised only to reflect changes in sales tax rates for the commodities subject to the sales tax.

The recent study shows that household operations, such as food, clothing, and personal care, services, education, and in-entertainment, are the most important consumer expenditures in 1960-61. This is the first time that the Bureau of Labor Statistics has issued a table of average state sales tax rates for 1960-61. The table is based on the Illinois estimated sales tax of 3 1/2 percent plus the city and county sales tax of 1/2 percent. Taxpayers should figure the total sales tax on the purchase of an item by adding the state and local sales taxes to the state average shown in this table. Deductions for state and local sales taxes are not included in this table and must be determined separately.

TRANSPLANTING TREES, SHRUBS, TAKES TIME

The best time to transplant trees and shrubs depends on the care you are willing to give.

Except for a few species, such as magnolia, mountain ash and other thinbarked trees, the fall is the best time to transplant, since trees will make some root growth now. Then the tree will be ready for growth in early spring. Most landscape men plant trees and shrubs, bare-root, in the fall after the plants are dormant and in the spring before new growth starts. Bare-root material takes more care in watering for a longer period than plant material that is balled and burlapped.

When transplanting bare-root stock, be sure to prune the top growth back to compensate for the reduction in root system.

One of the biggest mistakes the average person makes in transplanting is failure to take care of trees and shrubs after transplanting. The average tree or shrub needs supplemental watering for two years after transplanting before it can withstand any extended dry periods.

Mulching your trees and shrubs will prevent freezing, thawing and heaving this winter. If you mulch properly, you will eliminate weeds and conserve moisture next spring.

Cracked cornbolls have proved to be one of the better mulches. Although some people may dislike the appearance of cornbolls, first, they will weather after a short time and the color and texture will not be objectionable.

To make an effective mulch, apply cornbolls four to six inches deep. Wood chips, pine bark, redwood bark and pecan hulls also make good mulches, but most of them are not local products and cost more than cornbolls.

You can fertilize your trees and shrubs any time after they go dormant. Usually trees need fertilizer only every two or three years.

Since most trees and shrubs are deep rooted, leaching is not a real problem, so you could fertilize at almost any time of year. But it's best to place the fertilizer deep, and it should be available for spring growth.

For trees, the most common fertilizer is 10-10-10 or 10-6-4 at the rate of one-half pound of actual nitrogen per inch of trunk diameter.

Farm owners and operators wanting assistance in preparing or changing their leases or wishing to discuss any rental problems are invited to take advantage of a special service scheduled for Jan. 15.

On that date Franklin J. Reiss of the University of Illinois, well-known authority on farm management and leasing problems will be at the county Extension office to assist owners and operators. Individual conferences will be arranged in advance. Notify the farm adviser's office if you are interested and a definite time will be scheduled. Father and son business arrangements will be given special attention.

Vehicle to Check Underground Gas Mains in Area

Illinois Power Co. will make a routine check on the condition of its underground gas mains in Granite City beginning tomorrow. The survey will be made at night when traffic is at a minimum, and will be done without digging. The strange-looking survey vehicle is a converted Jeep with tentacle-like tubes which may be positioned in front or to either side of the vehicle. At the ends of the tubes are sensing devices placed close to the ground above and adjacent to the main. As the vehicle moves, a pen traces a picture of the main's condition on a moving chart. The apparatus will be operated by personnel from Illinois Power Co. It will make two surveys this winter of 25 communities served by the utility, including the Quad-Cities. The surface method is an improvement over old methods in which the pavement was drilled for intervals, causing traffic interruptions. Under the new method, motorists need only pass Quad-Cities. The vehicle is equipped with an amber warning light.

Quad-City Area's 1964 Expansion, Events in Pictorial Review

HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION and highway planning played a major role in development of the Quad-City area during 1964. The new cloverleaf at Mitchell, shown in this aerial view, is only one of the extensive highway building programs either underway or in the planning stage. As the year neared its end, Illinois State Highway officials announced detailed planning for a 20-year construction program in the Quad-Cities and surrounding area, to cost $47,000,000 by the time it is completed. The plan includes not only many new highways, but widening, resurfacing and relocation of many of the major streets.

HAIL STONES, literally as large as golf balls, fell throughout the Quad-City area early in April, causing over $10,000,000 damage to automobiles, roofs and windows. The greenhouse shown here is an example of the havoc which the heavy hail stones played. Roof repair work was so extensive, Granite City officials waived fees on building permits for repair work.

ADMINISTRATION OF ORAL POLIO vaccine in March was a successful project that attracted more than 52,000 Madison county persons—30,223 of them in the Quad-Cities—to clinics set up throughout the area. Here, three-year-old Irb Bryon Jr., 1821 Grand avenue, puts up no protest as he gets his polio in a Granite City clinic at Emerson school. A second dosage was administered in May.

BUSINESS EXPANSION in the Quad-Cities kept pace with other area-wide progress with construction of new businesses, shopping centers and additions. Here a ribbon-cutting ceremony formally opens the new W. T. Grant store at the Nameoki Village Shopping Center, one of the many new businesses that opened during 1964.

EARLY MORNING FIRE swept through the J. & R. Motor Supply Co. store, 1310 Niedringhaus avenue on Nov. 24, causing $300,000 damage in the biggest fire of the year. The blaze also destroyed the Granite City Dental Laboratory and damaged, through smoke and water, Scotty's Jewelry store and Frank's Card shop at 1314 Niedringhaus avenue and Simpson's Restaurant at 1316 Niedringhaus. The fire broke out at 12:02 a.m. A 14-year-old boy later admitted he had thrown a match in rubbish at the rear of the building.

INITIAL OPERATION at the Tri-City Regional Port Authority got under way the latter part of 1964, climaxing a year-long series of developments that included the sale of a $720,000 bond issue. Shown here is construction of one of two large tank installations for storage and transfer of liquid products by National Marine Corp. of Hartford and New York. New rail lines were constructed by the Illinois Terminal Railroad which contracted for handling of rail facilities within the port area. The port was officially dedicated during the fall.

CHURCH CONSTRUCTION in the Quad-Cities during 1964 was an integral part of the area's residential, business, industrial and economic growth throughout the year. Typical of the many new religious edifices is the new Nameoki Methodist Church, the first construction stage of which is shown in this photograph taken early last spring. The new church, located on Pontoon road, has been completed.

FIRST BIG SNOW of the 1964 winter season hit the Quad-City area Jan. 11, dumped eight and a half inches of snow in the area in two days. Some public schools were shut down and many transportation lines were delayed or halted. It was the most severe blizzard and the heaviest snowfall in three years, accompanied by near-zero temperatures that kept the snow and ice on the ground many days. The snow-blanketed walks and street above is a view looking east on Nineteenth street from Delmar avenue.

By Press-Record Staff Photographer

THE YEAR'S largest, but by no means only major industrial expansion plan was announced by Granite City Steel Co. Beginning in 1965 the company will launch a $120,000,000 program that eventually will replace the smoke-belching open-hearth furnaces in the Granite City plant. The above site along Omaha street, where the company has acquired property, will be used for part of the new structure. The steel industry throughout the Quad-City area reported expansion, both in construction and in employment and business expansion throughout 1964. By the end of the year, Quad-City metals industries were employing 3000 more workers than they did at the same time the previous year.
